Improving WordCamp.org Tools

Result Details

Question 01

How well does Jetpack's CSS editor meet your needs?

Answers 60 (98%) Skips 1 (2%)

	COUNT	PERCENT
It's pretty good, but there are a few things I wish were better	19	31.67%
It's great!	18	30%
It's ok, but there are a lot of things I wish were better	14	23.33%
It doesn't meet our needs very well	9	15%

If there are things you wish were better, what are they?

Comments 28

126,191,663	Jetpack's CSS editor is fine as it is, all I use it for is pasting in the CSS from my own stylesheet.	Thursday, May 21st 3:22PM
126,188,212	We ended up hosting our camp's CSS on github pages and just importing the CSS file there.	Thursday, May 21st 2:32PM
126,120,733	Color code and easier to search and pre-processor.	Wednesday, May 20th 2:21PM
126,107,826	I ran into a few caching/saving bugs when trying to make updates to the CSS, but in general I was just glad to have Sass as an available option.	Wednesday, May 20th 11:23AM
126,074,200	Unfortunately I do not remember the details but I had the impression that for SCSS not everything was supported. In case this is true documentation would be nice.	Wednesday, May 20th 3:34AM
126,046,771	AJAX saving would be a good start. Right now every time you save it refreshes the page and you lose your line number.	Tuesday, May 19th 2:59PM
126,042,686	No version controlling, limited theme support.	Tuesday, May 19th 1:51PM
125,944,768	It would be great if we could use custom themes or themes that are more flexible, it's always difficult to change structure of a theme just through CSS.	Monday, May 18th 10:25AM
125,937,906	I have had issues with formatting and a few other hiccups along the way. It is a great tool though.	Monday, May 18th 9:15AM
125,937,711	Possibility of saving without a page refresh, loosing my place when editing is very time consuming.	Monday, May 18th 9:16AM
125,787,222	I wish as WordCamp organizers, we had more control over what we could do with the site.	Tuesday, May 12th 7:06PM
125,634,720	It'd be nice it it remembered the last line you edited. So when you add a new line in and update the CSS it took you back to the last line you were on.	Friday, May 15th 5:04AM
125,623,227	Sometimes going back a step in the revisions didn't seem to work. Not sure it was my own mistake or a bug in the editor. I love how it supports SASS.	Friday, May 15th 1:00AM

125,612,703	Hard to scroll through it all; sometimes doesn't support what i needed in the past.	Thursday, May 14th 7:32PM
125,578,433	Ability to upload a full child theme.	Thursday, May 14th 10:49AM
125,098,740	Having to find my place again every time I saved it was super frustrating.	Thursday, May 7th 5:27PM
125,069,945	Allow to use sass and made it easier to add custom fonts.	Thursday, May 7th 8:24AM
125,003,607	No emmet auto-complete. In general it actually works pretty well. ;)	Wednesday, May 6th 1:15PM
124,968,824	Offline editing in a standalone text editor more easily, or improvement upon the Jetpack editor to be more fully functioned.	Wednesday, May 6th 6:29AM
124,952,191	It's not a problem with the Jetpack editor itself - it's rather that the method of editing CSS in the dashboard isn't a great UX. This is especially difficult in countries with slower internet connections where the editing, saving and reloading takes a while.	Wednesday, May 6th 12:51AM
124,946,273	I wish I could more easily allow collaboration on the CSS and version control and share it.	Tuesday, May 5th 10:14PM
124,933,376	Better overall editing (colors, saving revisions, line counter... I could go on all day)	Tuesday, May 5th 5:46PM
124,930,935	Better version control. Ability to download/upload files.	Tuesday, May 5th 4:55PM
124,927,100	it would be nice to have line numbering and code highlighting/coloring	Tuesday, May 5th 3:38PM
124,927,062	Search and replace would be nice.	Tuesday, May 5th 3:47PM
124,925,887	It's good for what it is, but since I want to make really unique designs, I'll still do everything locally and then copy over changes into the editor. It's a very cumbersome process. Jetpack CSS is great for small changes or customizations, but not for building a whole design from zero css.	Tuesday, May 5th 3:30PM
124,925,624	Indentation, search, autocomplete	Tuesday, May 5th 3:26PM
124,925,312	Maybe it's me, but I find overriding the styles sometimes fails.	Tuesday, May 5th 3:25PM